ROCKET

The Rocket 1983

Volume 65
Mayville,
Wisconsin

Looking Back One

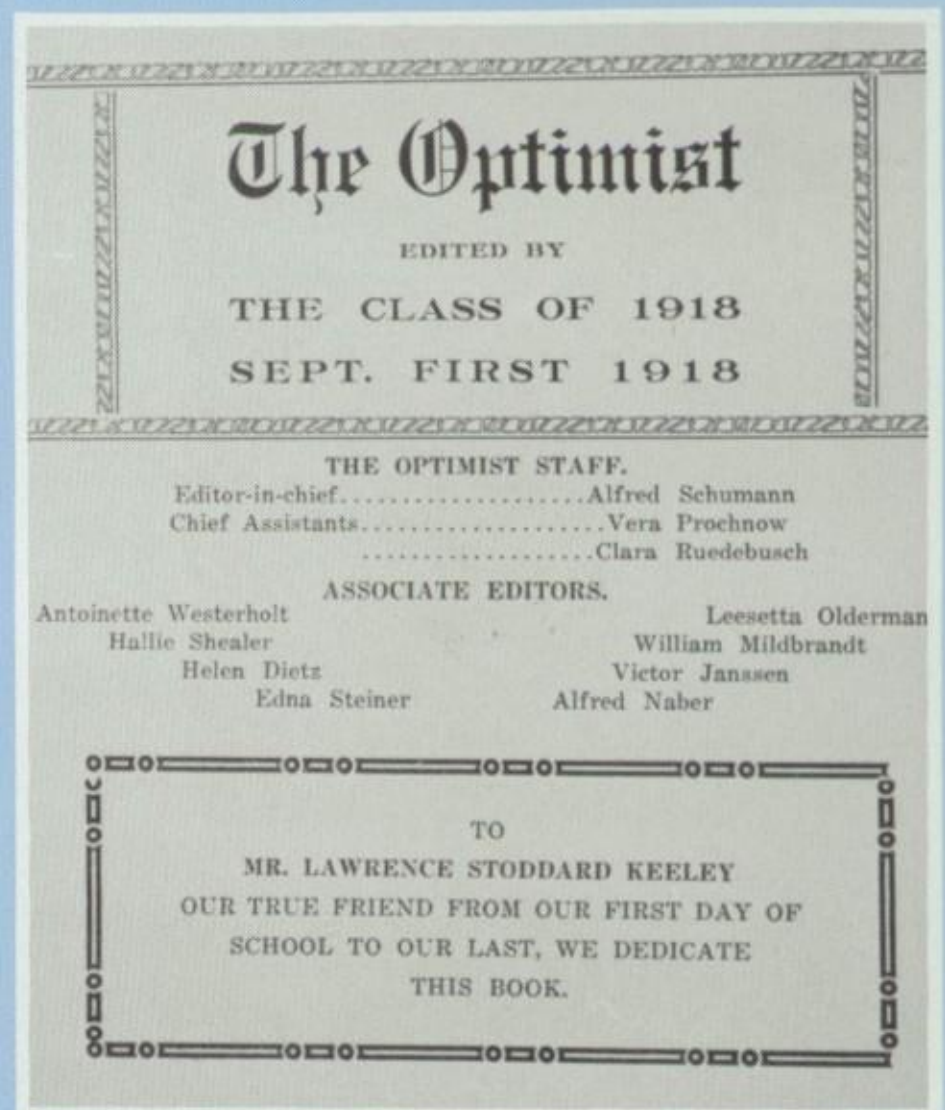

Dedication

On May 22, 1983, Mayville High School graduates its one hundredth class. The yearbook staff wishes to celebrate the event with this special edition of The Rocket dedicated to those first three graduates of 1883 and to all the graduates of the last hundred years.

An effort has been made to recognize every class in some way. Although it is difficult to discover much about the early classes, the introduction of The Optimist, forerunner of The Rocket, in 1918, provides a good record of the classes since that date. The present staff members are deeply indebted to all the previous editors and workers for much of the material included in this edition. The Mayville News, the Historical Society, and the public library also contributed pictures and information.

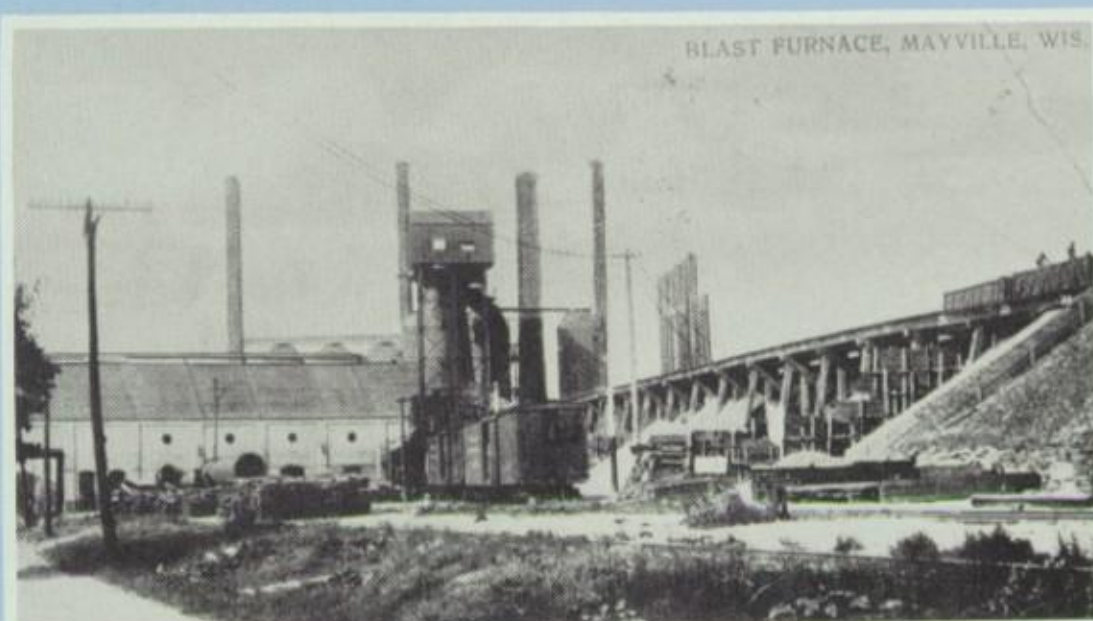

The 1983 yearbook staff hopes everyone is pleased with its efforts and will enjoy this edition for many years.

Special thanks to Edgar Mueller for an excellent job of reproducing old photographs.

JUNIOR PROM

Junior Prom 1942

HAPPENINGS

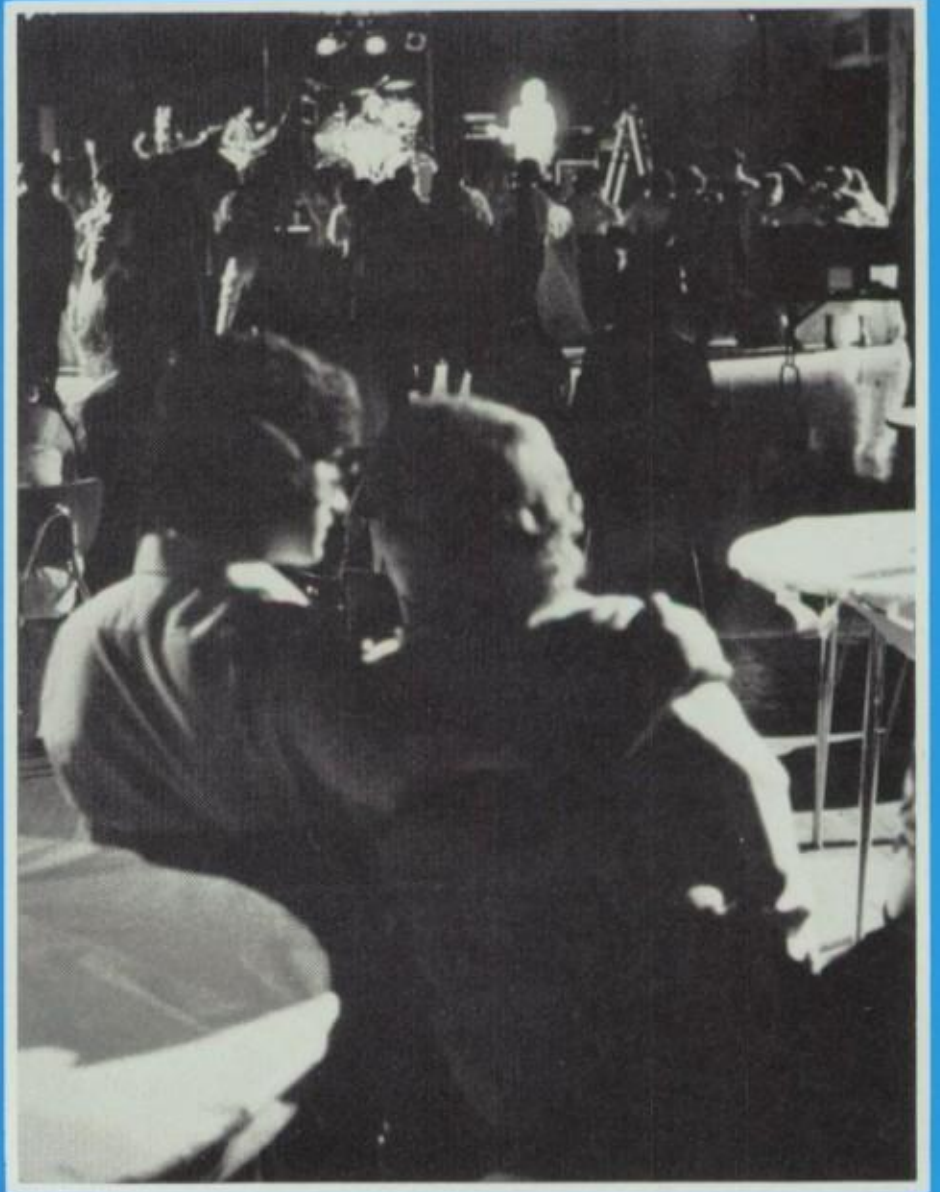

Junior Prom "Just Between You And Me"

King Mike Blair and Queen Beth Koepsell reigned at the Junior Room held April 17, 1981. Members of the court had dinner at the Woodridge Inn in Hartford before the dance. Ukiah furnished the music for the prom including the theme "Just between you and me" recorded by April Wine. Dancers then enjoyed the Post Prom held at the Mayville Golf Club, where "Mission" played.

Staci Kehrmeyer and Scott Hoffman, Sheila Waas and Dan Gourlie, Karen Schrab and Mark Zirbel, Lisa Ondrejka and Steve Schraufnagel, Beth Koepsell and Mike Blair, Julie Westphal and Keith Stortz, Robyn Franke and Dan Spittel, Jayne Hoff and Tom Bauer, Wendy Boeck and Brian Luehring

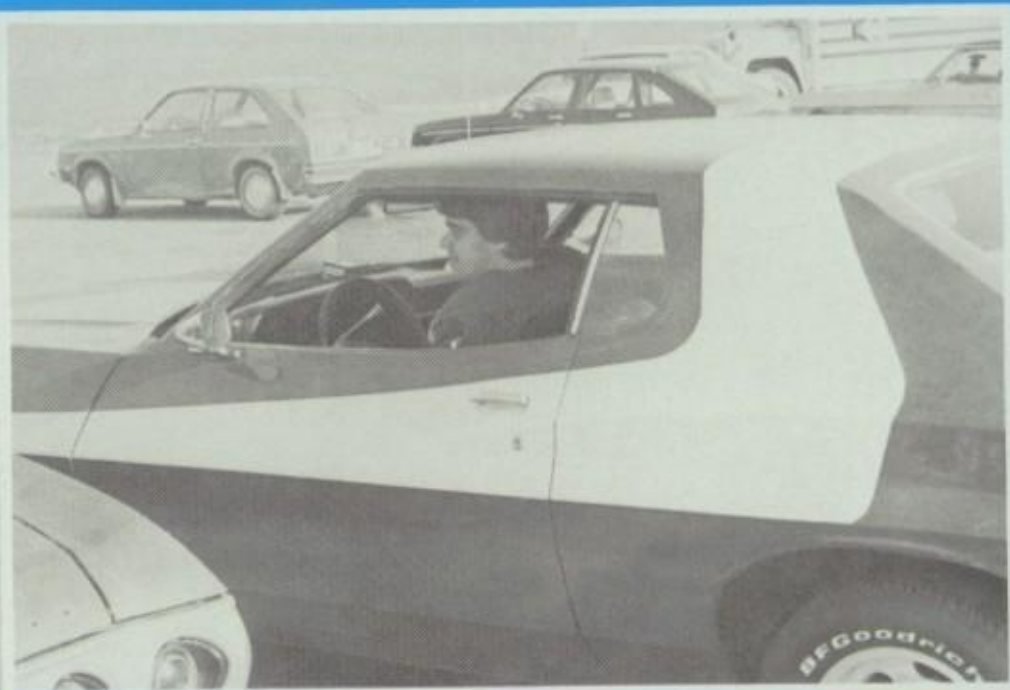

Occupations

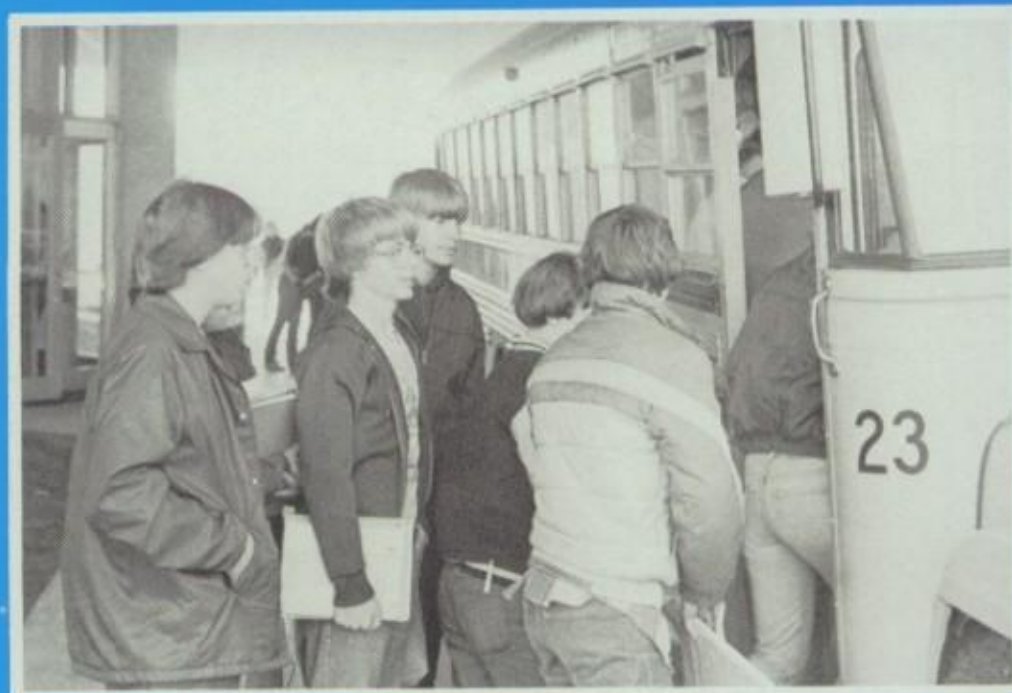

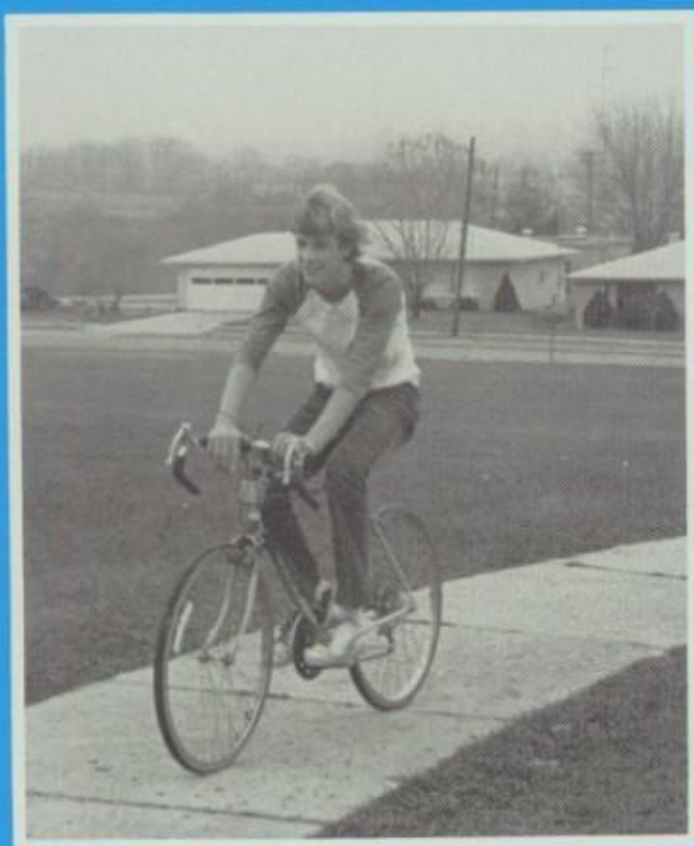

Not everybody lives the easy life. Some of us have to go out and earn money, learn responsibility, and gain experience for the future. Julie Voss, Ron Pollasch, and Darlene Gubin work at Mayville Foodlane. Jon Caves works for Caves Oil Company. And Tammy Wendorff is pictured with her employer, "Bumpy" of Bumpy's restaurant.

Locomotion

All of us have to get to and from school somehow. The lucky ones like Tom Penkoske own their own cars. Others borrow cars or vans from their parents as Staci Kehrmeier. John Ketelhohn and others ride motorcycles when the weather permits. Ben Schabel pedals his bike up the hill every morning. Many ride the bus. And a few still walk.

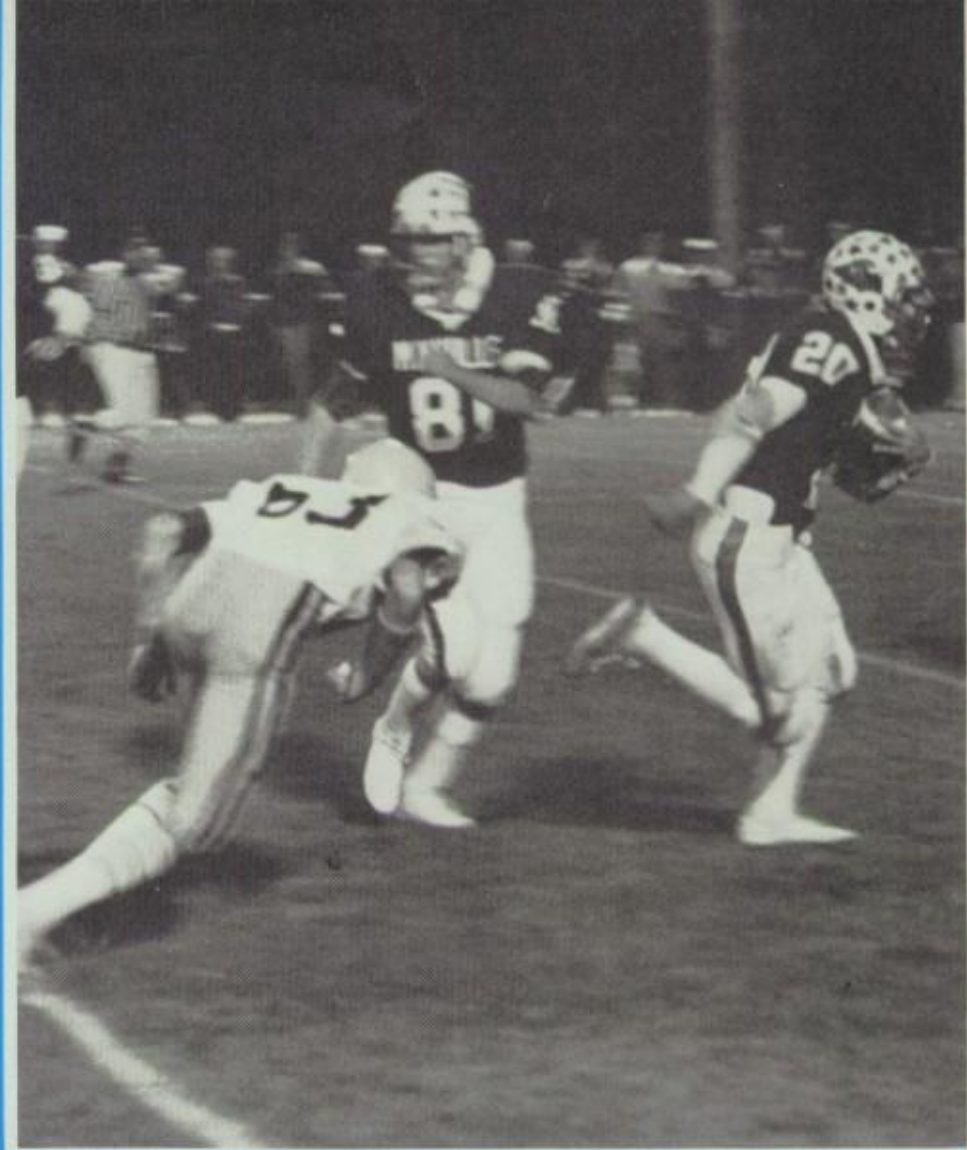

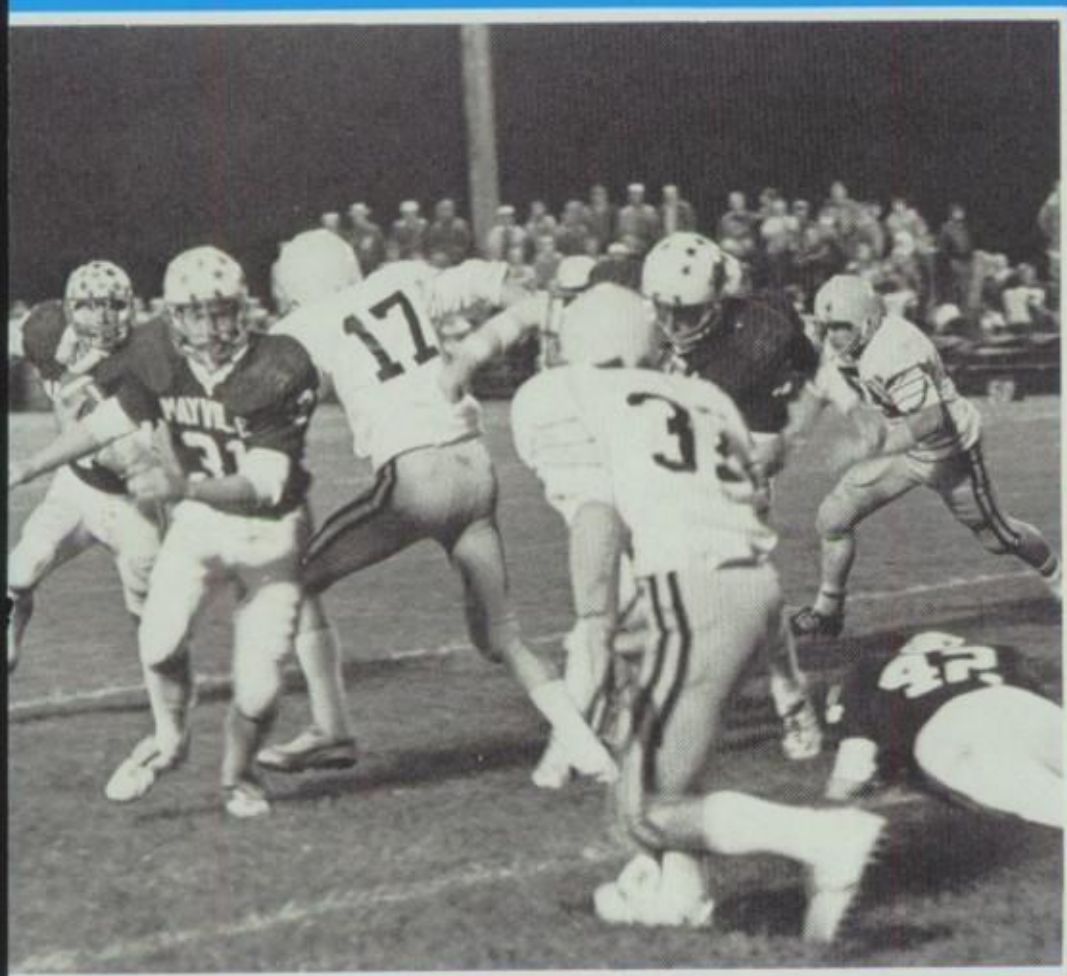

Homecoming

Homecoming Week was full of spirit and enthusiasm which took us to a victory on Friday. Everyone had a chance to participate in the celebration by wearing original and creative styles of dress appropriate to the designated day. Monday was Punk Day; Tuesday, Twin Day; Wednesday, Crazy Day; Thursday, Toga Day; and Friday, Red & White Spirit Day. Thursday evening's pep rally was enlivened by clowns and games and contests for those attending. The FFA had a special float in the parade Friday afternoon. Of course, Mayville beat Markesan 17-6. King Dan Gourlie and Queen Sheila Waas reigned at the dance following the game, where "Magician" provided the music.

MEMORIES

A Brief Look At

ENTRANCE TO GRACELAND CEMETERY

It is not surprising that men have chosen to live along Wisconsin's Rock River and its many tributaries since long before history was recorded. The eye and the pick of the archaeologist have traced the history of life along the river as far back as 776 A.D. Delving into time-parched books and documents, one may find familiar names and businesses that have endured as part of this community for over 150 years. The early grist and sawmills have long disappeared, but dams and millponds testify that they were here. The first sawmill was built at Mayville by its founders, May and Foster, whose stories begin with the building of the Erie Canal.

Chester May had contracted work on the project, completed in 1839, that linked the Great Lakes with the Atlantic Ocean. Filled with enthusiasm from that success, May and others saw the opportunity to develop Wisconsin's rich interior by constructing a system of locks and channels to link the navigable portions of the state's rivers with Lake Michigan at Green Bay, thus opening a continuous circuit of transportation to world trade. The project was predicted to be far less expensive than the Erie Canal.

In 1839, Chester May moved his family to Wisconsin from Oneida, New York. They settled on a farm near Fort Atkinson where May planned to center his activities. Three years before May's arrival, the Foster brothers and their families had settled in Fort Atkinson. The Fosters had previously lived in Augusta, Oneida County, New York, where they worked as millers. Dwight Foster had been the first white man to build a home in Fort Atkinson in 1835. It is not known if the Mays and the Fosters were friends before both families migrated to Wisconsin.

Unfortunately for May, the canal project never materialized. Controversies developed over routes and land values. Unforeseen problems of rapids and slacks finally resulted in the entire plan being abandoned. But the promise of a canal system had awakened interest in the rich potential of central Wisconsin. Many families had come from the East to settle along the proposed route. Small railroads began to appear throughout the state.

In 1845, Chester May and his Son Eli set out with Alvin and William Foster to search for water power where they might build a sawmill. There had been rumors of rich iron deposits near the east branch of the Rock River and this might have influenced their direction. May and Foster's original grant included only the land on the north side of the present city, on which was developed the iron works, the coke plant, and the power company. It was Chester May who recognized the reddish soil soon after their arrival here. They stopped and made camp. Everything they needed was on this site. They built their cabins and planned how they would proceed.

William Foster stayed to begin the work of clearing land for the mill. The others returned to Fort Atkinson to file land claims with the federal government and spread word of their decision. Meanwhile, William Goodrich contracted to build the dam.

Land on the site was offered free of charge to anyone who would build and settle here. Together the Mays and the Fosters built the first general store and offered land and building to any man who would put in a stock of supplies and operate the business. Thomas and Benjamin Palmer accepted, and although there were no roads, the Palmer brothers improvised ways of bringing in food and goods to supply the early settlers.

The first sawmill was completed in 1847. It was also that year in which H.G. Phelps built the first hotel, later to be known as The American House with Diedrich Puls the proprietor. Puls also ran the Wisconsin House and for several years operated a small distillery in the city. The post office was established in 1847, and Thomas Palmer was the first postmaster. A temporary school was set up in a private cabin in 1847. Two years later, Newcomb Lawrence built a small wooden schoolhouse on the site of the present middle school building. The land was donated by William, Alvin, and Edward Foster, and is still known as Foster Park.

MEMORIAL DAY PARADE ON MAIN STREET

Chester May did not live to see the effect his discovery would have on the community he founded. He died in 1849, at the age of 57, living just long enough to see the furnaces completed.

In 1867, Mayville incorporated as a village. Eighteen years later it became a city. Arthur K. Delaney, a former village president, was elected the city's first mayor.

At the turn of the century, Mayville was recognized as Dodge County's most progressive city. It was served by the Fond du Lac, Amboy and Peoria railroad, which later became part of the Milwaukee Road. Iron mining and smelting were still the major industries.

Blast furnaces popped and boiled and smoke stacks billowed the city's growing prosperity into the night. Traffic was heavy and Main Street was made extra wide so that wagons and teams could park into the road and still let two lanes pass between.

Friday nights, Main street was alive with iron workers, their pockets bulging with the fruits of the week's labor. Professional gamblers set up in the saloons, and whiskey sold for 4¢ a quart. Merchants were busy. There was a variety of harness, blacksmith and leather shops; cobblers hardware, and service stores. These included several general stores such as Naber's and Ruedebusch's, which were operated into the 1970's by descendants of the original families. In 1900, Conrad Henry Faust's meat market was already thirty years old. The business and industrial boom continued. But in 1917, Mayville residents

The discovery of iron deposits south of Mayville at the time of its founding triggered its early rapid growth. In its first ten years, 1,000 people had settled in Mayville. The great majority were German-born. At first, most came from New York State, but soon they began to arrive directly from Germany and Bavaria to work at the furnaces.

faced another crisis. Descendants of German immigrants were called to World War I to fight their own people.

So it is recognized that our city is the cumulative result of the life stories of all who have lived and worked here. And the story of Mayville is constantly growing and changing. The 1980's, with its poor economic times, will provide yet another challenge to the citizens of Mayville. And the future of the city will be shaped and changed by those of us who now live and work here.

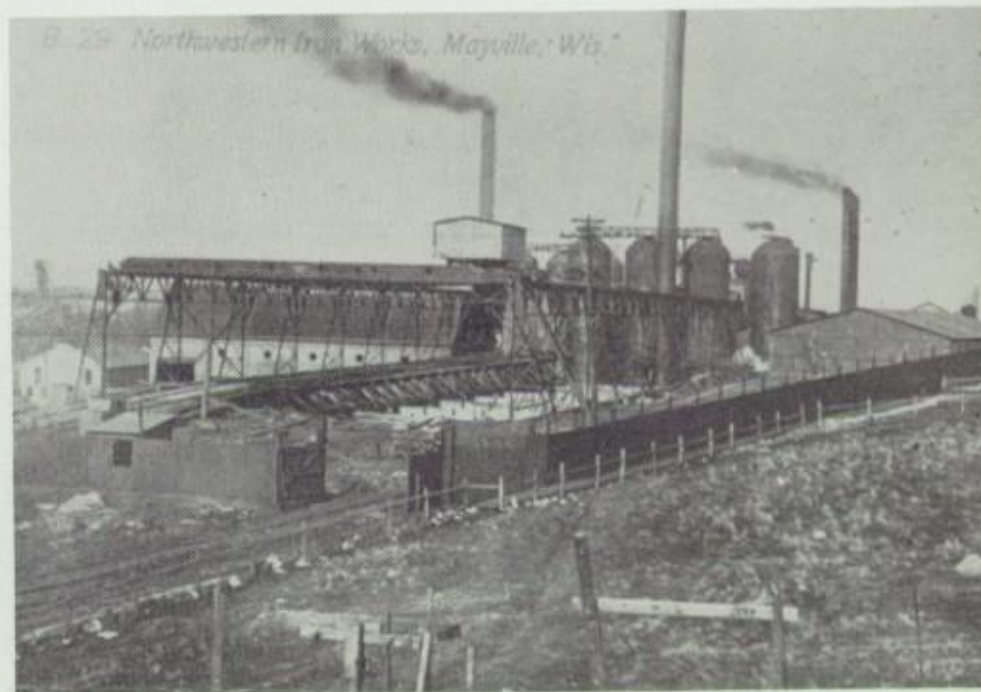

After the war, the city never regained its old prosperity. The iron works began to decline in the post war depression. A related industry, the coke plant, which had been operating since 1913, was seriously affected. From the time the mining and smelting industry began its downward slide, the coke plant also declined. A devastating explosion and fire seriously crippled the industry in 1919, and finally in 1921, the plant closed down. The iron works breathed its last in 1927. Mayville lost about 1/7th of its population. The figure fell from 3,011 in 1920 to 2,500 in 1930.

But the fine location and abundant resources were soon recognized by other industries. In the 1930's and '40's, Mayville experienced the beginning of its second cycle of industrial growth. Mayville's oldest industry, the White Lime Works, continued function. The Mayville Canning Company started in the early 1900's was still operating.

Metal fabricating, today Mayville's largest industry, began in 1937. A local name closely associated with industries since their inception is Gene Mauch. At that time Mauch was employed at the Cudahy branch office of a Milwaukee electric steel foundry. The industry was looking for a good location to expand its facilities for the production of fabricated sheet metals parts, components, and fully finished products. Through some friends who had travelled the state, Mauch found the old Wisconsin Radiator Furniture Company in Mayville ready to close. The Milwaukee corporation bought the building which was almost suited to its needs. Mauch moved his family to Mayville to guide the Maysteel Corporation in its beginning. The industry survived its growing pains and ten years later, in 1947, Mauch founded his own Mayville Metal Products Corporation.

Related industries have gradually appeared, until today there is a substantial network of metal fabricating, contracting, warehousing, and trucking industries sustaining the city's economy. Mayville Engineering Company, under owner Ted Bachhuber, has pioneered the manufacture of his inventive shotgun shell reloader, as well as other small manufacturing parts.

Mayville Public Education

Formal education followed fast on the footsteps of our first Mayville settlers. Scarcely had the first pioneers erected places of abode and made fields of the wilderness, when their efforts turned toward the education and training of their offspring.

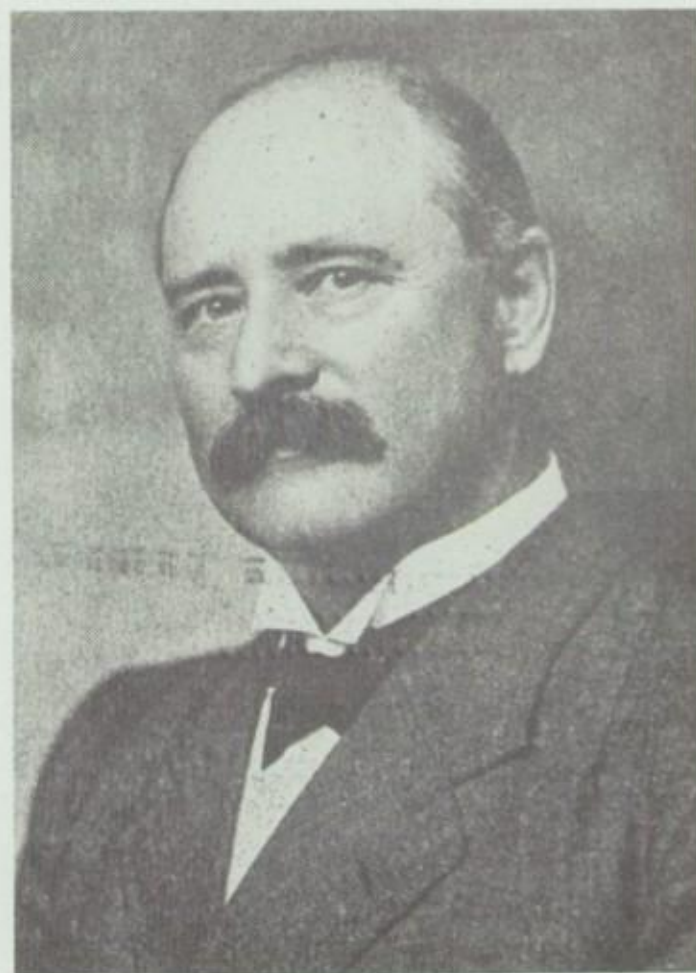

In 1847—two years after the first settlement—the first school was organized in Mayville. It wasn't possible to erect a school building at once. One of the public spirited citizens loaned the use of his home, which undoubtedly sufficed, for the enrollment must have been small in those early years.

In a few months a temporary frame school house was built on the site of the present Chas. Ruedebusch Company store. The offering of the subjects was meager—principally reading, writing and arithmetic. No record has been left showing who the first teacher and pupils were, but whoever these teachers were, they served their community well.

Two years later in 1849, three brothers—Alvin, William, and Edward Foster—donated a piece of land as a public square. This tract contained the present Foster Park and part of the site of our elementary school building. The first use made of the public square was the location and erection of a school house on the property. This school house served for nine years. Imperfect and incomplete records give the names of E.B. Bowen, A.E. Muzzy, Albert Lawrence, and a Mr. McGee as the teachers.

The enrollment increased, and in 1857, it was deemed necessary to erect a more commodious and permanent structure. The citizens did very well. A very substantial stone school house was constructed. It was considered at that time the most beautiful school house in Wisconsin. With an addition built some thirteen years later, it has been in continuous use for over one hundred years. It had a striking appearance with its cupola dome and large white pillars. The old wooden stairs are worn thin from the tread of many, many of Mayville's citizens. No longer in use as a school, the White Limestone Building has been designated a historical landmark by the state of Wisconsin.

The Mayville Historical Society is sponsoring a restoration project for the building, which includes replacing the cupola removed in 1970 for safety reasons.

After the school was originally built, three grades or departments were established and some more subjects were added—history and geometry. The first teacher was Mr. E.J. Foster. In 1870 a seventy foot addition was added.

Grade and High School 1900's

George Jones

The school district in Mayville was incorporated in 1856 by a special Act of the State Legislature with five school board members instead of the customary three. The number of board members was changed in 1897 by legislative enactment to three members, and later at a special election to five members and made a city system with city superintendent of schools, as it is today. The current board has seven members, each representing a specific geographical area of the school district.

In 1880, housed in the old stone grade building, a three year high school was established. The first class of three was graduated in 1883. There was no graduating class in 1884, but from 1885 til 1983, there have been steadily growing number of students graduating every year.

The first principal was J.M. Turner. He was replaced in 1882 by Horace Gibson, and in succession by J.H. Martins and L.S. Keeley. Mr. Keeley served from 1890 to 1897 when he resigned to practice law, but the love for teaching triumphed, and he returned in 1899 to serve another twenty years, retiring from the active duties in 1919. He was a great influence in the community. Mr. Keeley was followed by Dr. Ralph D. Owen. In 1922, Otto E. Buth became superintendent and served until his tragic death in an auto accident in 1938. Earl Luther served as superintendent until 1940 and was followed by George Jones, Woodrow J. Sizer, Robert L. Deetz, and the current superintendent, Steven Bushke.

In 1898, the high school quarters were considered too small and a new building was erected as a high school. This served for twenty-five years and it in turn became too small to house the increasing numbers who sought a secondary education. In 1924, another high school building and gymnasium were built.

Following a State Department of Public Instruction ruling, all elementary school systems allied themselves with a high school district by 1962. The school district thus acquired buildings in Kekoskee, Iron Ridge, and Leroy.

In 1955 the community appropriated money to build a new elementary school. Before work began, a faction in the community began agitating for a new high school. After months and years of heated debate, the community voted again and decided to build a new high school. In January of 1964, grades seven thru twelve moved into the new facility while the former grade school was renovated to serve an elementary population. The White Limestone building was closed at this time, only to be reopened to accommodate growing enrollment. This continued for several years until decreasing enrollment in the past four years has forced the closing of the White Limestone and the elementary facility in Leroy known as Clearview. Currently, the district operates four physical plants—the Iron Ridge location known as Southview, the city school purchased from the Dodge County Teachers College known as Parkview, the former high school building downtown known as the Middle School, and the high school located on Clark Street. The current elementary population is 640, and the secondary population is 467.

Many changes have occurred since the establishment of the educational system in Mayville. Curriculum is greatly expanded and constantly changing to meet the needs of contemporary society. Faculty and student populations have increased and decreased intermittently. New buildings have been built. Whatever has and will be done is planned to provide the best possible educational facilities and programs for the children of the district.

Looking Forward

God will not suffer man to have a knowledge of things to come; for if he had prescience of his prosperity, he would be careless; and if understanding of his adversity, he would be despairing and senseless.

Augustine of Hippo

WHEN ALL ELSE IS LOST, THE FUTURE STILL REMAINS.

Christian Nestell Bovee

"As I slip slowly into the twilight years, my thoughts return often to the years I spent in Mayville High. Although we are currently undergoing economic difficulties and the recession is creating grave problems, those of us who lived through the early thirties may be excused if we view today's conditions with some equanimity for we experienced worse before the days of workmen's compensation and social security.

CHESS CLUB, 1976

One vivid memory of my senior year was sitting in class and listening to the sound of the explosions as the steel company dynamited the blast furnaces to remove them forever from the tax rolls.

HONORS BAND, 1979

A STUDENT'S PRAYER

Go faster, go faster, O time in your flight; I did not prepare any lessons last night. The teacher is angry, as angry can be; I hope she won't call on this poor little me.

She is looking! Oh, hang it! she calls out my name, My forehead is sweating, my head is aflame. I'm shaking and trembling; it is worse than a fright, Go faster, go faster, O Time, in your flight.

She speaks: "If your're sick, you had better go out." My feet are now aching, as if I had gout. Thank Heaven for giving her those words to say, For I haven't prepared any lessons today. Amen.

— Bennie Aronin '28

TO THE CLASS OF 1930

Constantly keep high ideals before you. Set the standard of your thinking and your living above that of the masses. The world today needs men and women who are courageous and righteous leaders. Adopt principles that will mold character and make you an influence for finer and better living.

Superintendent Otto E. Buth

THE JUNIOR PROM, 1967

TO THE FACULTY

You, who gave us education,
In addition, power and strength,
You, who offered information,
Brought us to our goal at length.

You've prepared us for a new life
In the halls of life's own school,
Where we will encounter more strife
Facing tasks with sterner rules.

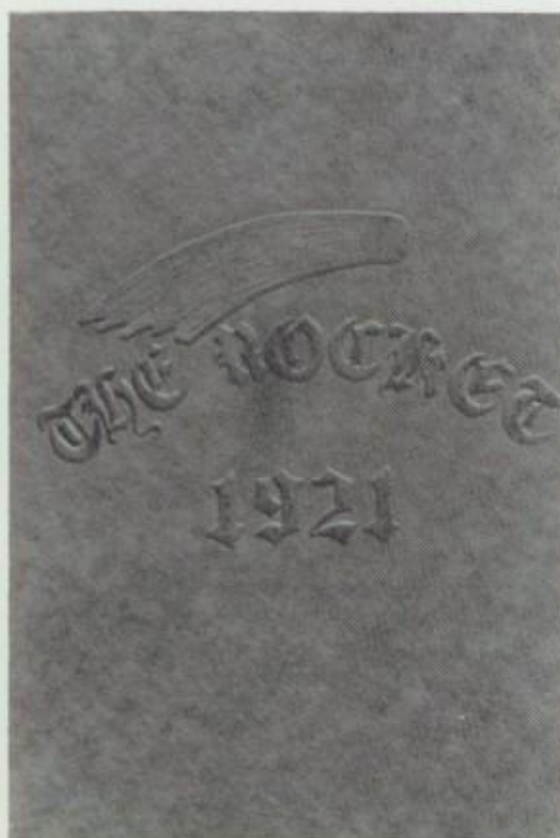

All the patience you have given
To both ignorant and wise;
Through the tedious hours you've
striven,
Smiling, maybe in disguise.

If we only could repay you,
For the wonders you have done!
This is all that we can offer-
Thanks, from each and every one.

THE HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY, 1953

FORENSICS STUDENTS, 1977

GRADUATION, 1969

The content of this book reflects the golden moments of 1968 at Mayville High School: the special things ... the Prom ... the football game against Concordia ... the homecoming festivities ... the tremendous spirit at the basketball games ... the everyday things ... AP(homer-oom) ... lockers crowded with books and coats ... the lines for lunch and milk tickets ... the honor study hall ... your classes and your teachers ... the fun ... the friends ... the last walk down the hall after Awards Assembly ... and Graduation.

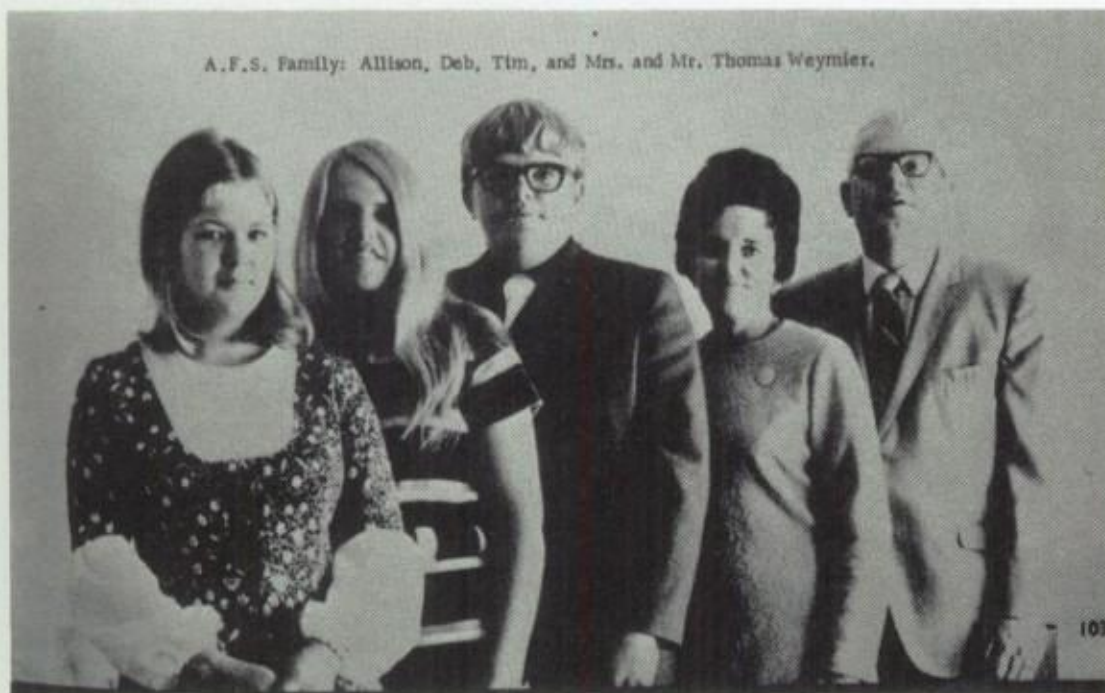

Belonging means going to the "same old school" day after day, BUT LIKING IT ANYWAY.

AFS STUDENT AND FAMILY, 1972

CHEERLEADERS, 1950

A.F.S. Family: Allison, Deb, Tim, and Mrs. and Mr. Thomas Weymier.

BELONGING

What does it mean to belong?

It means to be a part of this school and a part of everything that happens.

It means being a part of YOUR class. Perhaps a class of established friendships, shared experiences, and great class pride. Or perhaps a new class still getting started, and having a lot to learn.

Belonging is being as noisy as the rest of the crowd.

It means working for hours because you love the things you are doing. It's knowing that there is a place in school just for you. It means being an individual, and yet being a part of the whole. Rocket '72

We, the 1961-62 Rocket staff, hope that this annual will become one of your prized possessions. Our high school days are filled with many cherished memories and as you look back over the faded snapshots, we trust you will remember the good old days at M H S.

We have tried to present a key to each division and activity of high school work and pleasure. Knowing that the key to success is enthusiasm, we have all wholeheartedly joined to make this Rocket one of the best ever.

HOMECOMING COURT, 1969

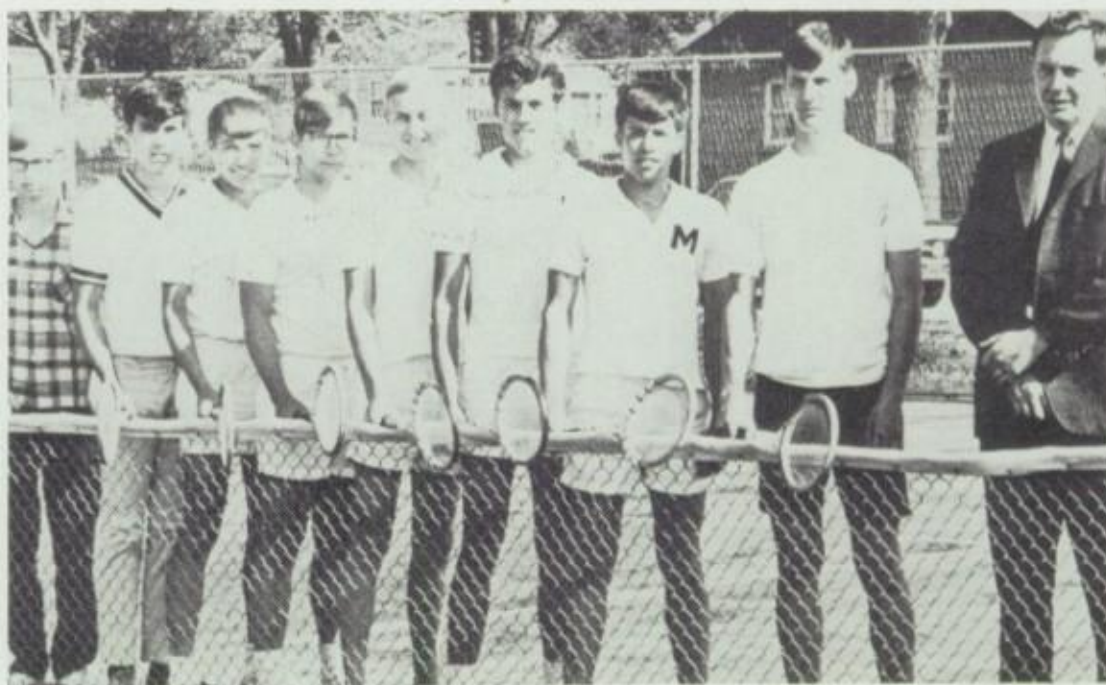

HOMECOMING, 1967

TENNIS TEAM, 1969

In 1918, Mayville High School published its first yearbook called the "Optimist". A few years later the students voted to change the name to "Rocket" because they thought this title suggested out going ideas. Rocket implied expanding and reaching out to other worlds. Several attempts have been made to change the name, but students and alumni have insisted on keeping it. Though the style of the Rocket has changed much, its contents still reflect the activities and interests of each student attending MHS. We hope that future Rockets will continue the tradition that began in 1918 and keep alive the ideas and activities that are so meaningful to us. ROCKET STAFF, 1980.
